Kate:

We recently reached out to our contacts in the two environmental Tribunals in Chile to conduct a post Study Tour survey a year after their visit to DC. We sent them the surveys. They seem to think that they had already completed such evaluation (or a similar one). They mentioned that the US State Department had been there and that they provided an evaluation of the EPA/DOJ Study Tour, and were wondering if they needed to "repeat" the evaluations. Since we do not want to duplicate efforts we told them that we were going to reach out to State to determine whether we needed any additional information from them. That is why Nadtya contacted you. Would it be possible to get a hold of those evaluations or report from that visit?

Also, on another but related note: Have you heard from the Embassy in Chile whether the books made it there?

Thanks!

Hi Nadtya,

Thanks so much for the reports!

On the evaluation, I'm a bit confused. Was this an evaluation the tribunal did of the EPA/DOJ-organized visit? If that's the case, I'm happy to do what I can to help, but I suspect it might be easier for those involved in the visit to reach out directly to their contacts. I don't know who was involved, so it would take me longer. Or maybe I'm misunderstanding?

Cheers,
Kate

Hi Kate,

My judicial training experts got word from the Santiago environmental tribunal about an evaluation they did around the time State traveled there and would like to request that you send it to us. They are working on a new form to send as an "end of program" survey, and want to take a look at those results as they prepare their review. Thanks in advance.

Also, please see attached the trip reports I owed you. Please let me know if I am forgetting anything, as I can't find my notes from our meeting.

Best regards,
Nadtya
